1. Write a Haiku! Haikus do not rhyme, but their three lines always follow a pattern:

Five syllables in the first line,
Seven in the second,
And five in the third.

Example:

An old silent pond. . .
A frog jumps into the pond,
splash! Silence again

By: Hasko

BONUS ACTIVITY!

Blackout.

Combine your artistic skills and creativity to make a Blackout poem. You will need black markers and newspaper.

A Blackout poem is when a poet takes a marker to a text, like a newspaper or a page from a book, and starts redacting (crossing out) words until a poem is formed. The key thing that forms a blackout poem is that the text and the crossed-out text forms a visual poem.
